Sit-in planned to fight tar sands

Protesters' message to Parliament: 'All people in Canada deserve a clean energy future that promotes climate justice, where treaty and indigenous rights are respected and the health of our communities and environment are prioritized'

JESSICA SMITH
@METRONEWS.CA

A group of environmental activists is preparing to get arrested for participating in a sit-in in the foyer of Centre Block on Sept. 26, organizers announced in a recent letter to supporters.

"We are asking each person to make a personal commitment, to weigh all the factors, and if you feel it is appropriate, to join with people from across the country in a peaceful, arrestable civil-disobedience action on Parliament Hill," the letter to "friends, allies, and supporters" reads.

The Council of Canadians, Greenpeace Canada and the Indigenous Environmental Network are organizing the sit-in to protest tar sands development.

The plan is "to peacefully and responsibly go through the main doors of Parliament to the foyer of Centre Block and sit down," the letter says, adding there will be a place set aside for those "not able to risk arrest." However, the plan is not set in stone and, depending on the response of police and Parliament security, it may change, the letter says.

Cab-fare increase takes a back seat

JOE LOFARO
@METRONEWS.CA

Cab fares in Ottawa aren't going up this year after all, the city said Thursday after the local taxi union withdrew its rate-increase request of 10 per cent.

The city's community and protective services committee was set to vote on a recommended 2.5 per cent hike in cab fares Thursday but the president of the CAW Local 1688 Ontario Taxi Union, Amrik Singh, said he backpedalled for economic reasons.

"The economic realities of today are that people are spending less," said Singh. "This is not the right time for us to ask for (an) increase.... We want to make taxi service affordable as much as possible."

"CAW Local 1688 Ontario Taxi Union has demonstrated they are excellent corporate citizens by withdrawing their request for a fare increase," said Coun. Mark Taylor, chair of the community and protective services committee in a press release.

Campaigning on cuteness

Eight-year-old tours Ontario, asking people to vote for her future Tells Ottawa crowd coal-burning is 'gross'

JOE LOFARO
@METRONEWS.CA

Sporting a pinstriped pantsuit and a killer smile, Penelope Plessas stopped in Ottawa Thursday to tell people about her provincial election campaign.

Oh yeah, she's eight years old.

The Toronto native is campaigning on behalf of Environmental Defence, a national charity focused on the connection between the environment and human health.

"It's my home," she said. "It's my habitat, it's a habitat for all living things on Earth, and we're all connected and I want to protect it.

"I've been to a wind farm and a solar farm and I think it's really cool. You can use it (to) light (and) to heat a house," she added in a speech.

The aim of her non-partisan campaign is to ensure that Ontario voters think of her future on Oct. 6.

More information on Plessas' campaign is available at penelope4ontario.ca.

Alleged robber gets shot by police officer

Shooting comes after a Gatineau police officer fired at a suspect as he allegedly drove at police outside strip club last month

JESSICA SMITH/METRO

@METRONEWS.CA

A Gatineau police officer shot a robbery suspect who was fleeing the scene of a break-in, said a spokesperson for the Québec provincial police, which investigates officer-involved shootings in the province.

At about 12:45 a.m. Thursday, police were called to a house on Chemin de la Savane for a break-in, when they saw a person get into a car and attempt to leave, said QPP Sgt. Ronald McInnis. Then an officer fired his gun and shot the suspect.

The suspect got away in a Chrysler Intrepid that had been stolen from the Hull area, he said.

"A few minutes later we received a 911 call for somebody who got injured," said McInnis.

"Police officers located the person and they located the car. This person was transported to the hospital and he is in bad condition."

"We know an officer shot (his gun), but we don't know if the suspect shot (a gun)."
QPP SGT. RONALD MCINNIS

A police officer has a minor injury, added McInnis.

No gun was found with the suspect and police are not sure if he fired one, McInnis said, as they continued to search the field where the stolen car was recovered and the area around the house where the shooting occurred.

The Gatineau police called the QPP to take over the investigation at about 4 a.m., said McInnis.

Cops declare murder-suicide in Gatineau

Two of the people who died in a home on Saguenay Street in Gatineau last week were murdered, and the killer, who was a family member, shot himself to death, police said Thursday.

Patrick Mongeon-Johnson, 32, shot and killed his mother, 51-year-old Lucie Johnson, and her partner, Denis Lagacé, 59, and then killed himself on the evening of Sept. 7, said police.

Their bodies were found two days later, when police made the grisly discovery after getting a call from someone who knew the victims.

"The deaths are a result of a family drama. The double murder-suicide theory is confirmed."
GATINEAU POLICE

Police will not comment on reports of Mongeon-Johnson's mental health, a spokesperson said.

Officers recovered a handgun that is legally registered under Mongeon-Johnson's name. METRO

Two suffer ammonia inhalation

Ottawa paramedics treated two men for ammonia inhalation at Scotiabank Place Thursday after the chemical leaked near the ventilation system of the building.

The building was evacuated at around 12:49 p.m. and when the Ottawa Fire Services hazardous-materials team arrived, the air was assessed and sampled for ammonia.

One man, 47, was trapped inside an elevator when the fire alarms were pulled.

He had extreme difficulty breathing from exposure to ammonia and suffered from airway chemical burns, paramedics said.

He was treated with high-concentration oxygen.

The second man, 55, had an asthma attack due to exposure to ammonia. Paramedics treated him with medication and high-concentration oxygen.

Both men were listed in stable condition in hospital. Staff and visitors were allowed back inside at approximately 3:25 p.m.

Ottawa police closed Frank Finnigan Way and Cyclone Taylor Boulevard. The roads were reopened at 3:50 p.m. METRO

Leclair resisted arrest, officers testify

STEVE COLLINS
OTTAWA@METRONEWS.CA

Velvet LeClair's arrest resulted from "a girl's night out gone wrong," but the arresting officers were not to blame, a lawyer for the Ottawa police said Thursday.

Matthieu Charron is representing the Ottawa Police Service and constables Norman Redmond and Mark Talbot in a $50,000 lawsuit brought by LeClair. She alleges she was assaulted during her arrest, then groped and subjected to sexual taunts by a group of officers in the police cellblock. Both officers said they did not recall such comments or conduct.

Redmond and Talbot both testified they had pulled over the overcrowded car that LeClair and five friends were taking home after a night out in the Market in July 2007. They told the driver, Laura McIntyre, that one of the four people in the backseat would have to get out or they'd get a ticket, they said.

STEVE COLLINS/FOR METRO

"I want to use the word corrupt. They are not accountable for their actions, nobody holds them accountable."
ADRIENNE GOWING

McIntyre's sister Sandra argued with the officers and they arrested her for public intoxication. As they were escorting her to their cruiser, they said LeClair followed them and demanded to know why they were arresting her friend. When LeClair hip-checked Const. Redmond from behind, they said, she was arrested for obstructing a police officer.

LeClair resisted, they said, and the officers each grabbed one of her arms and pinned her to the police car to handcuff her before driving both women to the police station.

A third woman in the car, Adrienne Gowing, was also arrested. She testified yesterday that she was repeatedly denied a phone call, manhandled and verbally abused by police.

Lawyers for both sides are to make final arguments Friday.

Cellblocks unsafe for women: Lawyer

LeClair and her lawyer say they want to see changes to the way women are treated in police custody

JESSICA SMITH
@METRONEWS.CA

Video footage of Velvet LeClair, Stacy Bonds and Roxanne Carr shows that the Ottawa cellblock isn't a safe place for women, according to LeClair's lawyer.

"I think that with the array of stories that have become public recently, about women's treatment in that space, we just have to wonder whether there really is a dedication to having a safe space for women," Karin Galldin said.

"I think we'd like stories like these to be believed, for starters."
KARIN GALLDIN, LAWYER FOR VELVET LECLAIR

The video that shows some of LeClair's time in the cellblock in 2007 is of poor quality, and police argue, in their defence of her $50,000 lawsuit, that they only used "reasonable force" to quell what they say was violent resistance to a mandatory search.

LeClair testified about being raped years before her arrest and also spoke about becoming hysterical in police custody.

Ottawa fashion given bad review

Capital named one of the worst-dressed cities in the world ◗ Orlando and Maui top dubious rankings

JESSICA SMITH
@METRONEWS.CA

It's a dark day for our city when the Jersey Shore is ranked as "better dressed" than Ottawa — albeit not by very much.

A list of the "worst-dressed cities in the world" compiled by MSN Travel put Ottawa as the eighth worst and ranked Jersey Shore — known for people with "unnaturally orange tans" and "instantly flammable, shellacked hair" — 10th. (Not to mention that Jersey Shore is not a city, but a geographic area.)

"As a city populated by suit-and-tie civil servants, there is zero audacity to be different and nary a fashion effort is made. Everyone looks like they're frozen in the 1980s," the scathing fashion review of Ottawa reads.

"Men sport the same boring navy suits that hang like shapeless curtains across their shoulders, women choose sensible shoes, sedate colours and are unremarkably respectable.... Quite frankly, it's perhaps the least sexiest city in Canada."

If there is one bright spot, Ottawa ranked better than Vancouver — which was skewered for bringing yoga pants to the world.

The very worst

Here's a list of the world's worst-dressed cities, from the very worst to the not so bad:

1. Orlando
2. Maui
3. Vancouver
4. Harajuku, Japan
5. Boston
6. Seattle
7. San Francisco and Silicon Valley

‘The face of our family’

For decades, the Fox family has shared the story of Terry’s determination and courage.

After losing a leg to bone cancer, he left his home near Vancouver for St. John’s in the spring of 1980.

From there, the 21-year-old ran nearly a marathon a day for 143 days, but was forced to stop outside Thunder Bay when cancer recurred in his lungs. He died the next summer.

Family matriarch Betty Fox played the largest role in preserving her son’s memory, said Fred Fox. This year’s Sept. 18 run marks the first since she died in June.

“It hasn’t quite sunk in yet. The day of, the morning of, I’m almost dreading it. I anticipate it’s going to be very difficult,” said Fred Fox. “She was the face of our family.”

31
The Terry Fox Run is entering its 31st year and has raised more than $550 million for cancer research.

Terry was the second of four children.

Fred, the eldest, works for the Terry Fox Foundation.

Judith, the youngest, works for the foundation’s international wing.

Darrell, the former director of the foundation, now works for the Terry Fox Research Institute, which supports cancer research projects.

The Terry Fox spirit lives on in 11-year-old cancer survivor

On Sunday, thousands will remember Fox, the 21-year-old who had a goal: To run across Canada Local events will take place coast to coast

Jason Ayer was just seven years old when he was diagnosed with a cancerous brain tumour, but the Toronto boy still remembers the exact day he heard the news:

Thursday, Nov. 8, 2007.

Through 71 weeks of chemotherapy, he said thoughts of Terry Fox and his goal to run across Canada with a prosthetic leg helped keep his spirits up.

"Terry has been my hero," Jason said.

"He didn't let his cancer get in his way.

"I was going through a little bit of the same thing (as Terry). I didn't have to get my limb amputated but I did have to go through the pain and chemotherapy."

Now in remission, the 11-year-old is sharing his story with students in the Toronto area in advance of the annual Terry Fox Run, the largest single-day cancer fundraiser in the world.

"Jason is so personable. He is willing to speak about (his cancer) — and not afraid."
FRED FOX, BROTHER OF TERRY FOX

It's a role Terry's brother Fred Fox is glad young Jason is brave enough to play. "It's so important to have cancer survivors out there to share their journey and show that research does work. They're the living proof of the progress that's being made," Fox said.

"Not many are that comfortable speaking about their experience, but Jason is so personable. He is willing to speak about it — and not afraid."

Jason tells how he celebrated when he went into remission on June 6, 2009.

"We had a big street party. We got a fireman to come and a magician and a bouncy castle," he said.

Terry's memory shines abroad

In its third decade, the Terry Fox Run has raised hundreds of millions of dollars for cancer research, according to the Terry Fox Foundation.

It has grown swiftly to host international runs — which had spread to 27 countries last year.

Fred Fox, Terry's brother, said the new generation of students and parents and teachers who continue to build on his brother's legacy is remarkable.

This year, Rolly Fox, Terry's father, will fill his wife's shoes and say a few words before the run in Port Coquitlam, B.C.

COD RECOVERY

Renewed calls for seal cull

A report released Thursday says 70,000 grey seals should be killed over a one- or two-year period to test the hypothesis that the animals are preventing recovery of groundfish stocks in the southern Gulf of St. Lawrence.

The recommendation from the Fisheries Resource Conservation Council mirrors a proposal released in March by the Canadian Science Advisory Secretariat, which works for the federal Fisheries Department.

Some fishermen in Atlantic Canada have long complained that hungry seals have hindered the recovery of cod stocks, which collapsed in the 1990s after overfishing. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Suspicions ignored in Swissair crash: Ex-Mountie

A former RCMP officer who investigated the 1998 crash of Swissair Flight 111 off Nova Scotia says officials didn't pursue his suspicions an incendiary device brought down the plane.

Tom Juby, who was an arson investigator, alleges the Transportation Safety Board didn't investigate that possibility even after high levels of magnesium — a key ingredient in an incendiary device — were discovered in the cockpit area.

The crash killed all 229 passengers and crew. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Mulcair gains support

NDP caucus splintering into rival leadership camps ◐ Vote in March

JACQUES BOISSINOT/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ NDP MP Thomas Mulcair refused Tuesday to confirm his candidacy for the leadership of the party.

Two Quebec MPs are urging Thomas Mulcair to go for the NDP leadership, creating the impression of a draft movement for the Montreal MP.

Mulcair has claimed to have the support of "a very large majority" of the party's 59-member Quebec caucus, although he has yet to formally declare his candidacy.

Francois Lapointe and Jamie Nicholls emerged from an NDP caucus retreat Thursday to lend credence to that claim.

"The person I've chosen to support is Thomas Mulcair," announced Nicholls, a Montreal MP.

"He's somebody who's been very supportive to the Quebec caucus. He has helped us in so many ways."

Nicholls said there's "a groundswell of support" for Mulcair. "Within the caucus, I've talked to a few people and they're ready to support Tom."

Similarly, Lapointe urged Mulcair to take the plunge, calling him an "exceptional" parliamentarian.

Until now, most Quebec MPs have said they're waiting to see who enters the race before deciding whom to support. Both Lapointe and Nicholls denied they were asked to make public professions of support.

A third Quebec MP, Claude Patry, later said he too supports Mulcair. And a fourth, Robert Aubin, said he's strongly inclined to support Mulcair, whom he credited with getting him elected.

Another prospective candidate, British Columbia MP Peter Julian, also won an endorsement Thursday, from Windsor MP Brian Masse.

So far, party president Brian Topp is the only declared candidate. He has already racked up an impressive roster of endorsements, starting with party icon Ed Broadbent and Quebec MP Francoise Boivin.

Earlier this week, Mulcair took a shot at the speed with which Topp launched his campaign, suggesting it was not respectful of the memory of the party's late leader, Jack Layton, who died of cancer last month.

Mulcair indicated he wants to take his time assembling a nationwide team before taking the plunge. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Killer stepmom sentenced

- Elisa Baker sentenced to maximum of 18 years for killing stepdaughter
- Court heard hours of sometimes emotional witness testimony

A woman has been sentenced to up to 18 years in prison for the murder of her disabled 10-year-old stepdaughter whose disappearance and death shocked communities in the U.S. and in her native Australia.

Elisa Baker pleaded guilty Thursday to second-degree murder, nearly a year after the Australian girl was reported missing from her home in the North Carolina town of Hickory.

Parts of Zahra Baker's remains were found in multiple sites shortly after her reported disappearance.

Bees attack farm, take down large hog

Killer bees attacked several farm animals and killed a 450-kilogram hog at a southern Arizona farm.

KOLD-TV reports farmers were trying to move a hive that weighed around 90 kilograms on Wednesday as an estimated 250,000 bees swarmed around like a black cloud and stung animals and farm workers.

Bee expert Reed Booth says he was surprised at seeing the bees kill such a large hog, considering the animal has several layers of fat and skin. A 360-kilogram pregnant sow was stung so many times that she went into a coma and lost her litter.

In northern Arizona, a man remains hospitalized after he was stung more than 1,000 times Sunday. Yavapai County authorities say 49-year-old DeWayne Spires disturbed bees nesting under a cattle trough.

Greenpeace celebrates 40 years

Four decades ago, a group of environmentalists boarded a former fishing vessel in Vancouver and set off toward Alaska, sailing up the West Coast to protest planned nuclear-weapons testing by the United States.

The ship, which was christened the Greenpeace, was intercepted by the U.S. navy and never reached the Alaskan island of Amchitka. But the stunt generated a barrage of media attention.

The group, which long ago adopted the name Greenpeace, is returning to Vancouver this week to mark its 40th anniversary.

"The remarkable thing about 40 years is that the organization is still standing — and not only is it standing, it's thriving," says Greenpeace International's executive director, Kumi Naidoo, who will be on hand for the anniversary.

Vancouver's mayor will proclaim a "Greenpeace Day" on Thursday. A so-called "Rainbow Warrior Festival" is planned this weekend at a local beach.

U.K. raises barrier to prosecuting war criminals

Britain has amended a law Thursday to make it tougher for ordinary citizens or activist groups to get arrest warrants against suspected war criminals or torturers — a move that angered some human rights lawyers and activists.

Britain's universal jurisdiction law allows British courts to prosecute foreigners accused of crimes against humanity, no matter where the alleged crimes were committed. The principle of the law is rooted in the belief that certain crimes — such as genocide, hostage-taking and torture — are so serious that they must be addressed anywhere it is possible to do so.

Under the new amendment ratified Thursday, private citizens can still pursue arrest warrants, but the government's chief prosecutor must approve them. Justice Secretary Kenneth Clarke said the change will ensure that "the balance is struck between ensuring those who are accused of such heinous crimes do not escape justice and that universal jurisdiction cases are only proceeded with on the basis of solid evidence."

In the past, attempts have been made to obtain warrants to arrest visiting foreign dignitaries such as Henry Kissinger, Chinese Trade Minister Bo Xilai and Tzipi Livni, former foreign minister and now leader of the opposition in Israel. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cruise ship fire kills 2

Sabotage was not suspected ‘Our suspicion is that there was an explosion in the machine room,’ Norwegian acting police chief said

An "intense" fire in a cruise ship's engine room killed two crewmen Thursday, injured nine others and forced over 200 passengers to evacuate a popular cruise off Norway's western coast. Police suspect an accidental on-board explosion.

Thick black smoke billowed from the stern of the boat, the MS Nordlys, even before it pulled into the dock at Aalesund, 375 kilometres northwest of the capital of Oslo. Police sealed off parts of the town as the smoke engulfed nearby buildings.

The ship's emergency evacuation began after the fire started at 9 a.m., with more than 100 passengers piling into lifeboats in the frigid waters. The rest of the ship's 207 passengers and 55 crew were evacuated at the dock at Aalesund, with some crew staying on board to fight the fire.

Aalesund Hospital said nine people had been admitted, two with serious burns and smoke injuries. Police said all of the injured and dead were members of the ship's crew. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Libyans open their arms to western leaders

Visit gives boost to leadership of New Transitional Council ◐ Release of assets to help beat loyalist forces

British Prime Minister David Cameron and French President Nicolas Sarkozy offered broad support for Libya's new rulers Thursday, promising to unfreeze billions in assets and help in finding Moammar Gadhafi, even as revolutionary forces attempted their first significant assault on the ousted leader's hometown.

The western leaders — the first to visit since Tripoli fell late last month — got a welcome worthy of rock stars from jubilant Libyans grateful for NATO airstrikes that helped turn the tide of the war in their favour.

Staff at a hospital in Tripoli applauded the two men as they visited wounded patients. Schoolchildren in Benghazi wore T-shirts that said "Generations will never forget the favours and support from Great Britain" and "Sarkozy: Benghazi loves you."

But tight security in both cities was a reminder of the fact that Gadhafi is still on the run and his supporters are holding out in three major strongholds, including his hometown of Sirte.

Gadhafi's spokesman, Moussa Ibrahim, chided the foreign leaders for their short trip, claiming that pro-Gadhafi fighters "are everywhere." He told the Syrian al-Rai TV station, "This visit by Sarkozy and Cameron is a launch of an imperialist project in Libya." Ibrahim did not say where he was, nor where Gadhafi was hiding.

In a surprise advance, revolutionary forces entered the outskirts of Sirte, 400 kilometres southeast of Tripoli along the Mediterranean coast, on Thursday and were facing rocket fire, according to a member of the military council from the city of Misrata, which was leading the assault.

Cameron acknowledged the fight wasn't over and pledged NATO would continue to support the anti-Gadhafi fighters. He said his message for Gadhafi and those fighting for him was: "It is over. Give up."

Britain and France led international support for the rebellion. This could put the two countries in a good position to cash in on lucrative trade and oil business.

Sarkozy denied any hidden agenda. "We did what we had to do because we believed it was the right thing," he said.

The visit also gave a high-profile stage for Cameron and Sarkozy to boost their images at home amid domestic woes fuelled by sluggish economies.

NATO, rebels fight on

NATO forces continue to go after the holdout loyalist forces in Libya. Airstrikes hit 24 targets on Wednesday, including several radar systems and surface-to-air missile systems near Sirte, Bani Walid and Sabha as well as smaller holdouts Waddan and Zillah, the alliance said.

Revolutionary forces entered Sirte's outskirts Thursday in a surprise advance on the pro-Gadhafi city, fighting resistance from loyalists.

Ali Gliwan, a member of the rebel military council, said fighters crossed a major highway overpass at the southwestern entrance of the city, and were met by rocket fire from Gadhafi loyalists.

The fighters advanced into the city centre, clashing with snipers and with members of an elite unit of Gadhafi troops barricaded in a leader's residence, Gliwan said. He reported four fighters on his side had been killed and seven wounded.

Gadhafi's whereabouts remain a mystery, but his loyalists hold various pockets in central and southern Libya. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

- So far, the UN has approved the unblocking of about $6 billion US from banks in the U.S., Britain and France.
- A spokeswoman for the British prime minister, who spoke on condition of anonymity in line with policy, said a new United Nations Security Council resolution authorizing the release of all frozen Libyan assets has support of all five permanent members.
- Analysts estimate that as much as $110 billion is frozen in banks worldwide.
- Britain has also won approval from the UN sanctions committee on Libya to release a further $950 million immediately to fund public-sector salaries.
- Britain will also offer funds for weapons decommissioning, mine clearance, medical assistance for those with grave combat injuries, and specialist help in locating and secure chemical weapons.

EXPECTATIONS DOUBLED

Industry soars

Manufacturing sales rose 2.7 per cent in July, ending three straight monthly declines as the Canadian industrial sector breathed back to life.

Statistics Canada said Thursday that manufacturing sales hit $46.7 billion in July, with more than three-quarters of the gains in Ontario. Oil products and steel, aluminum and other primary metal manufacturing were the biggest contributors to the gain, which was nearly twice what economists had expected. THE CANADIAN PRESS

End of the line for Crown Vic

- St. Thomas factory shut down
- 27th Ford plant closed since 2008

The Ford assembly plant in St. Thomas, Ont., closed Thursday after four decades and some eight million vehicles.

With closure, the last of 1,200 employees were thrown out of work. A decade ago, there were about 3,600 union members at the factory.

The final sedan rolled out of the plant and with it the end of a 44-year history that included building Fairmonts, Pintos, Mavericks and other autos.

The plant had been building full-sized sedans such as the Lincoln Town Car and Crown Victoria, but sales had fallen steadily for years.

The workers have known since 2009 that the plant would close, but they had hoped it would stay open. The union and Ford have worked out compensation packages.

A Ford spokesman said the company remains committed to Ontario, having recently invested in its engine plant in Windsor and its assembly plant in Oakville.

U.S. inflation continues to rise

MATT ROURKE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Brian Sprague fills his car's tank with gas in Philadelphia. Sharp price increases for gas and food have pushed up most measures of inflation this year.

U.S. consumers paid more for a range of goods and services last month, pushing up inflation.

The Consumer Price Index rose 0.4 per cent in August after jumping 0.5 per cent in July. The core index, which excludes volatile food and energy prices, rose 0.2 per cent.

For the 12 months that ended in August, the core index surged 2 per cent, the biggest year-over-year increase in nearly three years. That's at the high end of the Federal Reserve's informal inflation target. It could limit the central bank's ability to take further steps to try to revive the economy.

The Labor Department said food prices rose 0.5 per cent, the biggest increase since March. That was due to higher prices for cereals and dairy products. Energy prices increased 1.2 per cent.

Among the factors driving up the core index were rental costs. They rose 0.4 per cent.

Clothing costs rose 1.1 per cent, extending a string of increases that stem partly from steep rises in cotton prices earlier this year. Airline fares rose 1.1 per cent, the most since March.

Sharp price increases for gas and food have pushed up most measures of inflation this year. That has reduced consumers' purchasing power, cut into their spending power and weakened the economy. But the prices of many commodities have retreated since the summer. And many economists forecast that inflation will peak in the next few months.

Since August, gas prices have ticked up. The average nationwide price of gas was $3.63 a gallon Wednesday, according to AAA. That was about four cents higher than a month ago.

Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke acknowledged rising commodity prices had pushed up inflation but said it was likely to moderate in coming months.

Economic growth stalls

OTTAWA. The economic recovery has nearly ground close to a halt in big industrialized economies — and slowed in Canada — but a recession seems to have been averted for now, according to a forecast released Thursday.

Canada's slumbering manufacturing sector awoke in July, jumping 2.7 per cent after three straight monthly declines. The Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development predicted growth rates of one and 1.9 per cent.

Housing market steady: Analysts

The global economic turmoil that roiled stock markets around the world in August did little to dampen the Canadian housing market, which continued to show strong gains in sales and prices.

Analysts expressed surprise on Thursday that the wildly volatile swings on North American, European and Asian stock markets had little impact on housing, which for many years has been a pillar of economic growth in Canada.

While many analysts had expected a big slump — as Canadians felt poorer because of the stock losses and worried about a weak global economy — sales of resale houses remained steady and prices rose.

The figures, released by the body that represents the bulk of Canadian real estate agents, suggest that the housing sector — propped up by low mortgage rates and solid regional economies — will continue to drive growth in the national economy.

For years, housing has been a big job creator across Canada and has helped boost appliance, furniture, hardware and the retail sectors.

The Canadian Real Estate Association's August resale housing report showed sales of existing homes maintained the same levels seen in July and increased significantly from the same month the year before.

New listings also remained steady, the association said, adding the number of balanced local real estate markets is currently the highest on record. THE CANADIAN PRESS

BlackBerry profits take a nosedive

Research In Motion Ltd. reports its profit plunged by more than half in the second quarter, falling short of analyst expectations.

The BlackBerry maker, which keeps its books in U.S. dollars, reports second-quarter net earnings of $329 million US or 63 cents per diluted share on $4.17 billion in revenue.

That compared with a profit of $797 million or $1.46 per share on $4.62 billion a year ago.

Analysts' estimates compiled by Thomson Reuters had on average expected $4.5 billion US in revenue and a profit of 90 cents per share.

The technology firm based in Waterloo, Ont., announced earlier this year 2,000 job cuts, or about 11 per cent of its global workforce in a bid to cut costs in a highly competitive smartphone market.

A year without a brand new BlackBerry launch hurt the Canadian technology icon, analysts said, as rival Apple and Google's Android devices picked up ground.

3 The Sound of Silence: Paul Simon's beautiful The Sound of Silence, written in 1964 in the aftermath of the assassination of JFK, took on a whole new meaning for both an older and newer generation when he sang it on the 10th anniversary of 9-11 at Ground Zero. The song was perhaps the poignant moment of the tribute, and already has over a million views on YouTube. For some, it will now be the 9-11 memorial song.

Worth mentioning

Yes, it could happen. But it's a stretch.

Contagion, a Hollywood thriller that opened last weekend, rocketed to No. 1 at the box office through its gripping tale of a fictional global epidemic driven by a new kind of virus. Audiences have gasped in horror at what happens to Gwyneth Paltrow.

Before it was out, the movie made real-life disease investigators anxious, too, though for a different reason: They had worried the filmmakers would take so many artistic liberties with the science that the result would be an incredible movie that was ... not credible.

Well, cue the applause.

"It's very plausible," said Dr. Thomas Frieden, head of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, which would investigate such an outbreak.

A new virus jumping from animals to humans? Nothing fictional about that. Global spread of a disease in a few days? In this age of jet travel, absolutely. A societal meltdown if things get bad? Plan on it.

A strong, silent type

Ryan Gosling is an intriguing man of few words in the action-packed Drive
Film is a tension-filled, artfully shot escape, with a great soundtrack to boot

Metro World News Hollywood Correspondent Ned Ehrbar sits in for Mark Breslin this week.

Richard: Ned, Gosling isn't the easy charmer of Crazy, Stupid, Love, he plays Driver like a coiled spring. There hasn't been a leading man this close-mouthed since Rudolph Valentino was the king of the silent screen. He's a man of very few words, but his silence hints at an active inner life and his actions certainly speak to having a past. It's a brave and strange performance, either emotionally shut down, or simply cool-as-a-cucumber, take your pick.

Ned: Definitely the strong silent type. But I guess if your best friend is a scheming, motor-mouthed deadbeat like Shannon (Bryan Cranston), you learn to keep your mouth shut. The expression Gosling has on his face most of the time seems just as likely to turn in to a smirk or have him burst into tears, making him fascinatingly impossible to read.

But he certainly knows when to put his foot down, so to speak. As electrifying as Gosling's toothpick-chewing Driver is, the performance that impressed me the most was Albert Brooks as former movie producer and current mob boss Bernie Rose. I never thought the sight of the star of Lost in America would fill me with dread, but there you go.

RC: Albert Brooks walks away with the movie in his blood stained hands. Gosling, Mulligan and Bryan Cranston are all great, but the character you remember is the ex-movie producer-turned-gangster Rose.

He delivers what may be the best bad guy line of the year. When Gosling's character refuses to shake his hand because his hands are dirty from working Rose says, "So are mine." Great stuff.

NE: The only real criticism I'd make of Brooks is his performance makes Ron Perlman's character, Rose's less well-spoken partner Nino, stand out for being so conventional. But that's really about the only complaint I can put against the film. Every shot is artfully composed, and the tension-filled sequences of Gosling waiting for his getaway driving gigs to begin will make you reconsider how long you can hold your breath. And the music — I've been listening to the soundtrack every day since it was released last week.

RC: It's funny that a movie that values silence so much — there are l-o-n-g pauses in the dialogue — has such a great soundtrack, but there you go, just another surprising thing about an unconventional but intriguing movie.

The circle of life

Metro's Chris Alexander takes his son to The Lion King 3D redux

Dark overtones deviate from Disney's recent bubblegum fare

CHRIS ALEXANDER
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Disney has gone back into their vaults and dusted off their 1991 classic The Lion King and given it a 3D overhaul, releasing it to screens anew. The film looks and sounds incredible but it's not necessarily the audio/visual razzle dazzle that might strike many parents. Rather, compared to the studio's more recent, considerably sunnier fare like Toy Story, Bolt and Tangled, The Lion King is a much darker affair than you might recall. Something Jack can attest to.

Jack is my 4-and-a-half-year-old son, and I decided to take him along to the press screening, further exemplifying the 'circle of life' theme of the film itself. I vividly recall watching The Lion King as a kid, the last gasp of my childhood before adolescence consumed me whole and "cartoons" ceased to have appeal. So sitting in that darkened theatre, Jack by my side, was surreal and rather lyrical, both of us humbled before massive projected 3D images of illustrated African savannah, tumbling fauna, stoic royal felines and red eyed predators. Jack was rightfully awed…but also more than a little bit upset.

Maybe it was the core story, a familiar early Disney cocktail (think Bambi and Dumbo) that taps into the primal fear of losing a parent but couples it with the shock of murder, deceit, child abuse and the visceral jolts of slavering hyenas who eat everything in sight.

▶ Chris Alexander and son Jack

There's no denying that The Lion King is every single inch a masterpiece.

It's bold and brave, teaching kids lessons about the darkness of living while celebrating hope and optimism. It's a real movie, not watered down fodder designed to sell hamburgers.

Still, parents of young children should be warned and reminded...this ain't Mickey Mouse Clubhouse.

"I loved it", Jack said to me after lights went up. "But it was too sad when Simba's daddy died. And it was also a little bit scary ... and there were too many skeletons ..."

▶ Jason Statham

In their new film, Killer Elite, British stars Jason Statham and Clive Owen go head to head in a tough-guy showdown many movie fans have been hoping to see for years. So what was it like for Statham and Owen to finally face off? Why don't we let them tell you.

JASON STATHAM: Fancy film star Clive Owen has met his match.

Going up against Clive Owen: That's a good day at the office, right? Yeah, he's a real intense individual. He takes his work very seriously. The whole movie sets itself up where we never, ever come face to face. It's like this cat-and-mouse game. I don't want to be doing what I'm doing, I don't want to see this guy, I want to get in and out, get the situation taken care of it and get out, and he's just got to be the man to stop that happening. So when he gets a hold of me, it's a bit of an intense situation.

We both have a lot of different sort of films behind our backs, and he's got such great respect and such great critical acclaim. You know, I've done stuff that's appealing to a different audience, and hopefully we'll get the two to come together.

CLIVE OWEN: I will kill Jason Statham with kindness.

Going up against Jason Statham: It's actually a pleasure doing those big fight scenes with someone like Jason because he's so experienced. He's technically really gifted and really good at them. You know, I'm pretty good technically with those fights. I've done quite a bit of them myself. You can really commit, but you know that there's an understanding and an element of safety.

There is a moral ambiguity in that [Killer Elite] is not about good guys and bad guys. When they do come together, you want to see a bit of fireworks.

[Real tough guys] are much more low-key than you would think. They don't strut around, they don't act tough. They just are, and they're very quiet about it.

I Don't Know How She Does It

Genre: Comedy
Director: Douglas McGrath
Stars: Sarah Jessica Parker, Greg Kinnear, Olivia Munn, Christina Hendricks, Pierce Brosnan

Screenwriter Aline Brosh McKenna is like the McDonald's of female friendly rom-coms. She churns 'em out good and regular and the meals always taste about the same. They go down easy and leave you greasy. But in this rom-com factory, sometimes the deep-fryer's not working just right and you're left with the tepid mush that all these films really are. This is a film based on the book by the same name, written by Allison Pearson. By most accounts it was a palatable story about a hard-working mom whose demanding job sometimes puts her at odds with mommy duties. Translated to 90 minute short-hand, it becomes a screechy, silly caricature that leaves little room for subtlety.

Straw Dogs

Genre: Action
Director: Rod Lurie
Stars: James Marsden, Kate Bosworth, Alexander Skarsgaard

There are a lot of remakes out there that never should've happened. However, Straw Dogs won't fall under that category. Although in its new incarnation, it will be demoted from the classic status that the original 1971 version had, this pulpier take poses a strong argument for being relevant, at least for two weeks in the box office. James Marsden and Kate Bosworth play arrogant, Hollywood ex-pats hoping to enjoy some peace while renovating a house and barn where the wife (Bosworth) grew up in Blackwater, Miss. Aleksander Skarsgaard plays a polite but mildly threatening ex-boyfriend who is contracted to rebuild their roof. As the L.A. couple's very un-Southern ways grate on the locals, something sinister begins to encroach on their once-happy marriage.

Going for broke

Beth Behrs and Kat Dennings: Two budding stars ready to rock new sitcom 2 Broke Girls premieres Monday on Citytv and CBS

As their interview takes place in late July, Beth Behrs and Kat Dennings can count a grand total of one week spent working together. That was when they filmed the pilot for 2 Broke Girls — and that was in April.

But joining a reporter for breakfast at Mel's Drive-in, a Valley landmark, they share laughs and a chemistry that seems years in the making — just as they do on their sassy new comedy as struggling waitresses at a Brooklyn greasy spoon.

While waiting for production to resume in early August, they solidified their friendship.

Kat: "We've been checking in with each other every few days."

Beth: "I'll randomly text Kat about something I'm watching on TV in the middle of the night: 'You need to see this!'"

Kat: "Like, Extreme Makeover did WHAT?!'"

Orders are taken. Kat calls for wheat toast and, more urgently, a cup of joe.

"Nectar!" she rejoices when the coffee arrives. "And it's not bad."

"I like diner coffee," Beth agrees as her cellphone sounds off.

"Oh, gee," she sighs after checking the number displayed. "This guy has been calling me all morning. I don't say my name on my message, so maybe he thinks I'm someone else. He keeps leaving these intense, long messages."

"Let me do it, let me do it!" says Kat, eagerly snatching the phone and, in the guttural tone of a longshoreman, growling into it: "WHAT!!! Who IS this? WRONG number! NEVER call again!!!"

They both dissolve into laughter. "That makes me SO happy!" Kat giggles.

On 2 Broke Girls, their characters will form a similar bond. But not instantly. First, they have to size each other up.

Kat plays sarcastic, street-wise Max Black, who, to make ends meet, must work two jobs, one of which is the night shift at the downtrodden Williamsburg Diner.

Beth plays chic Caroline Channing, whose ritzy Upper East Side lifestyle has abruptly come undone after her money-manager father got busted for financial shenanigans.

Like Max, Caroline is now broke, too, and is seeking refuge at the diner waitressing alongside Max, who warily receives her not only as a co-worker but as a flat-mate, too.

So not only is 2 Broke Girls a buddy comedy, it's also a fish-out-of-water sitcom, with Caroline the Brooklyn-beached fish.

In playing their roles, they both speak of trying to avoid stereotypes.

"Caroline is a girl who used to walk out of her New York high-rise with a car waiting and someone there to hand her a Starbucks," says Beth. "For me to play her, I had to find the entitlement without being a bitch."

"Caroline's really sweet and innocent and adorable," Kat declares. "I think that's a fresh approach." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Debbie Harry and Blondie move forward

Band has new album out this month Set to go on tour during fall Looking forward to performing new material

JEFF GENTNER/GETTY IMAGES

Debbie Harry

Few would call Debbie Harry a geek, but the gorgeous Blondie singer has no problem with technology.

In fact, she's always embraced electronic innovation.

"That's part of our business, really," Harry said.

"We rely on technology to produce our music and perform concerts. A lot of our instruments are tied to computer or synthesizer technology.

"The change from analog to digital, that was a big change. But it's sort of more natural in a way; it's the way the brain actually operates, instead of the old mechanical way. I don't feel like a Luddite in any way."

Personal evolution is important, too; so the band's fall tour is not about revisiting their splendid hit songs like Heart of Glass or Dreaming.

The New York City-based new wave pop veterans' new album, Panic of Girls, is out this month to add new sounds.

"I think that's the best part of it," Harry says of recording a new album.

"We are in a very cushy position, because we are well known. But going around playing the older hits and everything wouldn't be, oh, I don't know … it just wouldn't be as inspiring or interesting as trying to make new music.

"Let's face it: As our lives change, our experiences change and our insights improve. It's more relevant to sing or talk about things that are happening today.

"The world is changing so quickly. The difference in communications since the Internet came into being — the world is so different now and we're a part of it." METRO

- Panic of Girls is exclusively available through Amazon. Debbie Harry explains the partnership:
- "Because we're independent, we don't have any distribution — so it's an ideal situation for us. On a personal level, I've been dealing with Amazon as a consumer for a long time. Anytime I've gotten anything from Amazon, it's been quick and painless."

Lifehouse trys to 'cleanse the palate'

Metro recently spoke to singer Jason Wade Band wants to be fresh

MEREDITH ENGEL
METRO NEW YORK
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

ASTRID STAWIARZ/GETTY IMAGES

Jason Wade, singer of Lifehouse, performs in New York City earlier this summer.

Los Angeles-based group Lifehouse burst onto the scene in 2001 with Hanging By A Moment, the first single off their debut album No Name Face, and since then, they've recorded four more albums and have another in the works.

We spoke to lead singer Jason Wade about his writing process, the new album and how he's spending his off-stage time in Beantown.

So how has your sound changed since your earlier material?
We have gone through a lot of transition. The last album, I did quite a bit more co-writing. In the early days I wrote predominately by myself, so I have been going through a transition over last two or three years learning how to co-write a little bit more, but now we're back in the studio doing demos and I am starting to write by myself quite a bit more.

And that can be tiring and wearing on you as well. You always feel that you are just bleeding on this canvas for everybody to analyze, so it was refreshing not using my own relationships for the world to see.

What's your song-writing process like?
It is different every time for me and it is still evolving over the years. I will start with the melody sometimes and I will wait for the lyrics to come to me. Sometimes I will wake up in the middle of the night with a lyric idea.

I am always trying to stay sensitive when that inspiration hits, because I find when I try to just sit down and write a song it doesn't really happen.

I feel like we are at that point in our career where we've written so many songs that we have to trick (ourselves) and I am trying to write more on the bass and the piano just to try to get outside of my own little tricks that I have learned over the years.

How's the new record coming along?
It is going good. We are just in the process now of doing demos and I am transitioning into writing more by myself and channelling some of the earlier Lifehouse music. I really don't want to put too much pressure on it and rush it and just make a record like our previous albums just because they did well.

I really want to make sure that what we are doing is inspired and fresh. I am just trying to cleanse the palate and start over and pretend like it is just our first album.

How do you like Boston?
I just think it is an awesome city. I think it was 2004, 2005 when we were still playing smaller clubs, and there was this club called the Avalon (that) had the most amazing energy. Out of all the shows, that crowd just carried the show. We've had an opportunity to have a couple days off and just walking around the city, it just has so much history to it. And I am a big Celtics fan.

How have you been spending your downtime here?
We have been doing all these baseball games — and I had to throw the first pitch in Cleveland a little while ago — so all of us are into baseball right now. We will all go out to the amphitheatre and play some catch.

BEIJING, China — When you're deep in the bowels of economy class, a 12-hour flight across the Pacific is not pleasant.

I was about five hours out of San Francisco when the hallucinations kicked in.

As deep vein thrombosis clotted my blood and the Brazilian sleeping pill did something other than put me to sleep, I ended up conducting a question-and-answer session with myself.

Here's what I remember.

I don't remember seeing any CD shelving in the 2012 IKEA catalogue. No more Benno shelves or Ivar racks? What does that mean?
Well, at least they still sell things that look like milk crates.

Why do people keep giving money to Madonna to direct films?
Given the reviews of W.E., they won't anymore.

Best go back to fulfilling the obligations of that $120-million deal with Live Nation.

Time to go on the road again, dear.

Hasn't anyone had enough of U2 by now?
After a less-than-successful album, a two-year world tour and a documentary at TIFF, all that's left for 2011 is a reissue of Achtung Baby.

There may be four albums' worth of material in the works, but they really need to go away to dream things up again.

DARREN CALABRESE/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Madonna

Who's buying all those Adele albums? I mean, she's sold 10 million copies of 21.
Lots of different people — and not just those who pick up their music from the counter of Starbucks or at Wal-Mart. This is a rare album that has become a genuine phenomenon based solely on the quality of the music.

Why haven't there been more songs written about 9-11? I mean, that was a defining moment for so many things.
Other than The Rising by Bruce Springsteen, Let's Roll from Neil Young and a couple of country songs, the events of that day haven't really been captured in song. The trauma may have been too great.

Aren't people tired of hearing Gary Glitter's Rock and Roll, Part 2 at sporting events? And Crazy Train? And Are You Ready for This?
Note to self: write a column on new songs for stadia.

I'm sure I'll have more questions and answers for myself on the way home. The flight home from my conference takes 13-and-a-half hours.

Jay-Z has 99 problems and his children are one

Rapper reportedly paid former lover to not disclose he fathered her child

Jay-Z is happily expecting a child with wife Beyoncé, but it may not be his first.

Star magazine is reporting that the 41-year-old hip-hop icon fathered a love child with model Shenelle Scott nine years ago, before he and Beyoncé were an item.

Jerard Andrews, the father of the man who was previously believed to be the child's father, says DNA tests have concluded Jay-Z's paternity.

"Shenelle told me that Jay-Z gave her $1 million to keep her mouth shut. My understanding is that he's paying her child support," Andrews says. "Shenelle took the money and bought herself a really nice house in Trinidad that the whole family lives in now."

FBI looking into hacked cell

The FBI is reportedly on the case of who hacked Scarlett Johansson's phone and leaked nude photos of the actress online, according to Fox News.

The photos surfaced online this week, and TMZ reports that Johansson made the request for the FBI investigation herself.

The Feds are reportedly already investigating more than 50 other cases of celebrity phone and e-mail hacking.

Johansson's lawyers have been furiously sending removal notices to any websites posting the images.

Despite that, the photos have been widely populating gossip and celebrity sites the past two days.

A-Rod and Diaz break things off again

NOT WORKING BECAUSE SHE'S WORKING. The on-again off-again relationship between Cameron Diaz and Yankees star Alex Rodriguez is reportedly off again.

"They broke up recently," a source close to the couple tells Us Weekly. "They're still very friendly and like each other. He has an enormous amount of respect for her."

As it turns out, work got in the way this time around.

"She's very busy with her career," the source says. "And he's had injuries and wants to focus on his game. They're dedicated professionals."

Honouring Star Wars

PETER ROCKWELL

I remember when I saw Star Wars. I was a kid on vacation with my parents and we went to a theatre in Brewer, Maine to witness what would arguably become the biggest revenue generating stream in movie history. This walk down memory lane is brought to you by today's release of the Blue-ray versions of all six Star Wars movies. I need them like I need another corkscrew, but giving George Lucas money is an addiction I just can't seem to kick.

Even though Darth Vader is only a child with poor acting skills in The Phantom Menace, I've chosen a brooding wine to supplement my pursuit of this ultimate version of what I've already seen a hundred times.

Chile is cabernet country and the Viña Errázuriz 2009 Max Reserva Cabernet Sauvignon ($16.85 - $19.99) is powerful for the price, packing a youthful punch of deep berry fruit, smoky oak and chewy tannins. It's great with steak and its flavour force stays with you. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS CANADA. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Originating in India, this condiment can be used to spice up bland dishes or sweeten hotter ones Apple & Sweet Pepper Chutney is ideal for fall

Chutney brings food to life

Many may not realize how international their daily meals are. Ketchup was developed from a Chinese sauce but got its name in Malaysia. Mustard began with the Romans but assumed its present form in France. Add to that list chutney, a condiment Europeans discovered in India that has become popular worldwide.

It usually consists of chopped fruits, vinegar, spices and sugar cooked into a chunky spread. Non-sweet vegetables such as peppers, onion and garlic can also be added. Common spices used include ginger, cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg, allspice and cardamom. It can be hot and spicy or sweet and sour.

Apple and Sweet Pepper Chutney

Fall is the perfect time to make this chutney, which is a delicious sweet-savoury complement for cheeses and meats such as chicken or pork.

Preparation:

1. In Dutch oven, combine apples, onions, red and yellow peppers, garlic, salt, cloves and hot pepper flakes. Stir in sugar and vinegar. Bring to a boil over high heat, stirring often. Reduce heat and boil gently for 30 minutes, stirring often.
2. Stir in currants. Reduce heat and simmer for 15 minutes or until thickened, stir often. Ladle into sterilized canning jars to within 1 cm (1/2 inch) of rim. Top with prepared new sealer lids. Apply jar rings just until fingertip tight. Wipe jars if necessary. Place in boiling water, with tops covered by at least 2.5 cm (1 inch) water. Boil for 10 minutes. Remove to drain.
3. Lids will vacuum seal as they cool. Test lids by pressing in centre (will not move). Do not retighten lids. Store any unsealed jars in refrigerator and use within 1 month. Keep sealed jars in cool place. THE CANADIAN PRESS/ FOODLAND ONTARIO

Illness puts Raonic's return in question

Canada's Davis Cup team has proven they can win without star player Milos Raonic, but they would rather not have to do it again.

Raonic's much-anticipated return to tennis could be on hold, as the hard-serving 20-year-old from Thornhill, Ont., fell ill earlier this week after arriving in Israel for Canada's match against the host country.

Raonic was hit with a bug, says Davis Cup captain Martin Laurendeau, and his status for Friday's second singles match against Amir Weintraub is uncertain.

"He's in the process of recovering and getting his strength back," Laurendeau said during a conference call Thursday.

"He wants to play. He trained this afternoon, he's really worked hard to be here and play for Canada. He deserves to play and he will if he can."

Raonic hasn't played since injuring his hip at Wimbledon in June. He underwent surgery July 5 in Vail, Colo., and announced his tournament return would be this weekend's Israel matchup.

Laurendeau believes having this specific Davis Cup target date inspired Raonic to a faster recovery.

"It really looked bad for the first few months after his injury," Laurendeau said. "But Milos is so determined, he's got Davis Cup as a top priority on his calendar and I think that was the key to success in his rehab."

If Raonic can't play Friday, the team will go with Peter Polansky of Thornhill. Raonic is also scheduled to play the first singles match on Sunday against Dudi Sela.

Leafs to debut sponsor patches on practice jersey ◐ Part of rich deal with shipping firm Purolator

The Toronto Maple Leafs have taken a first small step down the slippery slope toward European-style shirt sponsorship.

On Friday morning, the Leafs will debut a credit-card sized patch on the chest of the team's practice jersey advertising the Purolator brand. It's one part of a sponsorship deal that has the Canadian shipping giant paying the club an amount in the low seven figures, according to MLSE sources.

The Leafs become the sixth NHL franchise to take advantage of the league's new (and in certain U.S. markets, desperate) search for additional revenue.

At this point, it's an experiment contained to morning skates and the off-season.

The road leads, of course, to the sacramental cloth players wear on game days.

Shirt sponsorship in the modern, splashed-in-big-letters-across-the-front sense started in Germany's Bundesliga in the early 1970s. It was deeply unpopular, but within a decade everyone was doing it.

British soccer club Manchester City recently signed a 10-year, $625-million US sponsorship deal with Etihad Airways, the major component of which is their shirt-front billboard.

At some point business logos will migrate from practice jerseys to NHL game uniforms as well, because too many clubs need the money to survive.

When and if the NHL's most famous symbols begin to fade in the capitalist clutter, purists will wonder if anything is sacred anymore.

The slow creep of commerce across the ocean and into North American sport suggests that nothing ever was.
